WILL STRIVE FOR THE PROMOTION OF ALTRUISM

The public is cordially invited to attend a meeting of Adelpia society in the Federation of Labor hall Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. Governor Cutler will preside. Among the speakers of the evening will be Rev. Elmer I. Goshea, pastor of the First Congregational church; John P. Meakin and Robert D. Armour of Brisbane, Australia.

The purpose of the meeting is to feel the public pulse in regard to the organization of a society of fraternal peace and good will. It is non-sectarian and non-partisan, and every one interested in altruism is cordially requested to attend. It is to be patterned after the plan of the peace society founded in New York by David Low Lodge in the year 1815, and the Massachusetts society that was founded by Noah Webster during the Christmas holidays during the same year in Boston.

At present there are organizations of this character in New York, Chicago, Minneapolis, Wichita, Kan.; Cincinnati and a number of other centers. But the society that is proposed for Salt Lake will embrace many new features.

CRITCHLOW WILL DELIVER ADDRESS AT DEDICATION

President A. J. Davis of the city council extended an invitation Saturday to E. B. Critchlow to deliver the address, dedicating the handsome granite fountain at the west entrance to the City and County building grounds, Thanksgiving day. Mr. Critchlow accepted the invitation. The dedicatory exercises promise to be largely attended, as hundreds of school children, Mayor Bransford, members of the city council and other prominent citizens will be in attendance.

"COME AS A MAN," SAYS METHODIST PASTOR

Delivers Brilliant Response at Welcoming Reception Held at Church.

Dr. Frances Burgette Short and Mrs. Short were tendered a reception Friday night by the congregation of the First Methodist church in honor of the commencement of Dr. Short's duties as pastor. The occasion was brightened with remarks of welcome by members of the church and a response by Dr. Short, who was quite overwhelmed by the reception. The evening was successful and enjoyable in the highest sense of the terms. Dr. Short said, among other things:

"The kind words of welcome which have come to us this evening would surely make any stranger feel quite at home. This is indeed a royal welcome and both Mrs. Short and I appreciate it, but we have had more than words to convince us of our welcome to this city. Indeed, Salt Lake people are so much like the good people of Delaware and Oregon that we have from the first felt quite at home. The fact is human nature is about the same everywhere, and everywhere it is rising higher and higher in the moral thermometer and hastening the day when righteousness shall fill the whole earth."

"I come among you as a minister and to minister, but please let me remind that I come also as a man. My special work will be in this church, but my rights as a citizen give a citizen's rights to the city and State, and nothing higher nor holier can I ask at your hands than the privilege of exercising my rights for my country and my God to the best of my ability."

Please do not misjudge my relation to public affairs, but the influence of the Christian ministry must be felt there in this century even as it has been felt in centuries before. Let me remind you that the ministry has ever wrought magnificently in the world of education and literature, politics and state, sociology and emancipation, religion and moral reform. What authors have given to literature such writing as have Isaiah, David Solomon, Augustine, Erasmus, Savonarola, Emerson, Milton, Edwards and Bunyon? What statesmen have ever wrought so permanently and industriously as did Moses for Israel, Knox for Scotland, Luther for Germany, Wyck for England, Calvin for Switzerland, Hilbrand for Rome and Savonarola for Florence? And what of our own country? Who were the founders and guarantors of our country? Roger Williams, William Penn, Francis Ashbury, Frederick Garretson, James Lee, John Robinson, John Cotton, majestic, immortal company of political but not partisan statesmen these. And what of our own country? Unrepeating, matchless triumvirate, which hurled its shaft of logic and reason, of sentiment and pathos against that institution, human slavery? Who led in its final and complete overthrow? Theodore Parker, Henry Ward Beecher and Matthew Simpson, so long as the names of these men will ever be kept fresh in the minds of all who love and seek for others what they love and seek for themselves."

Dr. Short came originally from Delaware, and recently from Portland, at which place later he has resided for several years.

Mr. Christensen will give a Thanksgiving matinee and ball in his Dancing Academy, 137 E. First Street South, on November 28, at 4 and 8:30 o'clock. Friends and patrons are invited.

WORK OF RIO GRANDE WILL NOT BE AFFECTED

General Manager Ridgway Talks About the Policy of Company.

A. C. Ridgway, general manager of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad, devoted three or four days time to the railroad business in Salt Lake last week. Mr. Ridgway left favorably impressed with conditions at this end of the line. Asked for his impressions, he said: "The output of coal is gratifying. Coal is now being shipped from Hale, Price and Helper to Salt Lake and elsewhere by independent coal companies. At that a shortage of coal this ensuing winter is already discounted."

"There are newer and better cars and a greater motive power on the road than we had a year ago. We are well up with freight transportation, and traffic congestion, we think, is a thing of the past. The roadbed is in good condition and will be so kept during the winter months. Of course, the Rio Grande, like any other conservatively managed road in the country, will be conducted along the most effective economic lines. No one of us can tell just when this money stringency will let up, but it is continuing, freight traffic will fall off. It can't help it, as there is no incentive to ship produce and stock of any kind East. I am inclined to think, however, that conditions will improve and that sooner or later the produce of the country will gravitate to centers of distribution. So far as the work laid out to be done in Salt Lake by the company is concerned, I don't think it will be affected, as work will be continued right along until the projects and improvements agreed upon shall have been completed. Every effort is being made to complete the Western Pacific between Salt Lake and San Francisco."

C. A. Walker, general agent of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, returned from a hurried business trip to Boise Saturday morning. Business is fairly good in Boise and people, Mr. Walker says, are hopeful for the future.

E. A. Cousina, traveling agent of the West Shore railroad at Chicago, spent Saturday in Salt Lake, in railroad circles. Mr. Cousina says on his way East, after a two weeks' trip through the West, Mr. Cousina was greatly surprised at the evident prosperity which prevails in Salt Lake. This city, he thinks, is going to be the business and manufacturing center of the intermountain country.

Railroad Notes.

W. W. Dickinson, traveling freight agent of the New York Central lines, returned Friday morning from a business trip through Montana and Idaho.

E. W. Schneider, traveling freight agent of the Nickel Plate railroad from Chicago, is in the city, with his family. While working up wool business in the West for his road last season, he became so thoroughly infatuated with the Western country and Utah in particular, that he purchased some time ago 200 acres of land fronting on Utah lake, at Lehi.

Leyson's

The name Leyson carries to the mind of most people pleasant recollections of things received and happy anticipations of other things to come at Christmas, wedding, anniversary, Easter and birthday time.

It seems as though each year's experience fits us to more accurately judge the wants of our patrons and we are quite sure that Leyson's now is more attractive and more abundantly stocked with what is wanted than at any other period in our history.

Although we have the rare sparkling jewels for the exclusive buyers we have, more abundantly, the many pretty and practical gifts for those of lesser means, and we cater particularly to this class this season, hoping to show the skeptical that we sell better goods than most local jewelers and at lower prices than any.

This week we want every one to come down and visit us whether anything is wanted in our line or not as the best compliment anyone can pay us is to come purposely to enjoy our stock and surroundings.

We call particular attention to the fact that this is a great brass, copper, bronze and iron epoc and our display of practical and artistic pieces in these metals is unexcelled in the west. Selections made now will be held until Christmas.

Remember it is quite correct to give jewelry for Christmas gifts but in Utah it is more correct to see that Leyson's name appears on the box and to get the box you must buy the goods here.

"Jones candy" may be as good as "Huylers" but it don't sound as good, neither is its guarantee established, so it is with jewelry, Leyson's sounds best and has an unchallenged guarantee of superiority.
